

Baby Cübes (pack of 20)
£4.99, ocado.com

These organic purées come in nifty little ice cubes and have been coming in very handy! I've also been whizzing the fruit ones up with avocado, banana and milk to make the most delicious smoothies for the whole family!

I can't tell you how excited I am to be writing this new monthly column. I started writing in Baby magazine's sister title, Little London, when my daughter was small, with a regular Get Crafty spot. Now that I've gone back to nappies with my latest addition, I'm going to be sharing news from my own baby bubble and revealing some of the cool products I've been testing. That's the greatest thing about the baby world, there are literally so many amazing products coming to market, purely to help new parents on their way. This month is all about weaning for us, as the little man is really into his food – and finally some teeth have started showing. I really hope you enjoy my selections!

WHERE TO GO

One of my favorite places to take my little one when the sun is shining has to be Chelsea Physic Garden. Tucked away behind the Thames, you would miss the door if you weren't looking. Inside it's home to thousands of plants and is one of the most peaceful places in London. Whether you have a babe in a pram or a toddler, it's an absolute joy to visit. The café also serves a mean cup of tea and slice of cake! chelseaphysicgarden.co.uk

Nurture: Notes and recipes from Daylesford Farm
£35, daylesford.com

I love a great recipe and I have been reading my mother-in-law's book, Nurture, cover to cover, which is all about how and why she decided to go organic over 40 years ago.

Bamboo set, £14.99,
bamboobamboo.co

I'm completely crazy about this brand Bamboo Bamboo. The natural, non-toxic plates and bowls have a fun coloured suction base so little hands can't pull them off the table and I love the matching spoons.
